22-year-old man went missing two-and-a-half years ago Remains found in backpacker hunt

THE remains of an Oxfordshire backpacker have been identified and a half year after he went missing in Canada.

Tom Briggs, 22, of Oxon 202, who last went missing in Vancouver in November last while spending eight weeks travelling through North America had been reported missing a week later.

The Vancouver Police Department (VPD) confirmed last Friday that the 22-year-old's remains had been found after a DNA identification had been carried out.

A statement from VPD said: "The family were in touch the general public for the support and assistance at the search to find their son Tom over the last two-and-a-half years."

"The family specifically wishes to express their deepest appreciation to the members of the North Okanagan Search and Rescue team and the Bellingham police of British Columbia, the staff and members of the British consulate in Vancouver for all their continued support and finally to the VPD, the RCMP and the Missing Persons Division particularly for their continued and persistent work to find their son Tom."

By Alex Ballinger

A Man in Cypress Mountain, British Vancouver reported missing believed to be British remains on April 11.

The police reported the sighting in police and the search and rescue to be carried out to find the missing M1 backpacker.

VPD said the Canadian Consulate in Vancouver was continuing to investigate the death, but that police were not suspecting Mr Briggs had been travelling after graduating from Durham University and was planning to study for a semester in the future.

A final push to find the body of the former Oxfordshire resident in October 2014 proved fruitless and his family feared he would never be found.

The VPD statement added: "The 22-year-old remained missing and was later found in a backpacking trip in the mountains of North America."

"He was reported missing a week after he was last seen, when he failed to complete his travel plans."

Heroin dealers jailed for shooting of 26-year-old Pair get life for murder

Two heroin dealers have been jailed for life for the fatal shooting of a 26-year-old woman in a flat in Milton Keynes.

Emily Johnson and Charles Noble, both 30, were sentenced to life in prison after being found guilty of the murder of a 26-year-old woman in a flat in Milton Keynes on November 14 last year.

Johnson was sentenced to a minimum term of 20 years and Noble to 18 years in prison after being found guilty of the murder of a 26-year-old woman in a flat in Milton Keynes on November 14 last year.

By Alex Ballinger

A statement from Mike Davies, an ex-policeman, said: "My life, her brother and little sister's lives have been devastated beyond repair at the untimely and unprovoked death of Emily."

"Emily had everything to live for. She had a job and friends that she loved, and was devoted to her little sister and her brother."

"The pain and grief that we are suffering at losing her cannot be put into words."

"We will never come to terms over losing Emily but she was a victim in this case. Young men who are involved in drug dealing are often involved in drug dealing and are often involved in drug dealing."

Chief Crown prosecutor for Thames and Chilterns Crown Prosecution Service (CPS) Adrian Foster said: "Although it is a tragedy that Emily was killed, the evidence against Johnson and Noble is overwhelming. The evidence against Johnson and Noble is overwhelming. The evidence against Johnson and Noble is overwhelming."

to the untimely death of Emily Johnson, of High Court, County of Northamptonshire, and Noble, of Northamptonshire, in Milton Keynes, were both found guilty of murder by a unanimous jury after a 12-day trial last Friday.

Both men, who had both been on probation, had been charged with the murder of Emily Johnson, of High Court, County of Northamptonshire, and Noble, of Northamptonshire, in Milton Keynes, were both found guilty of murder by a unanimous jury after a 12-day trial last Friday.

Johnson was sentenced to a minimum term of 20 years and Noble to 18 years in prison after being found guilty of the murder of a 26-year-old woman in a flat in Milton Keynes on November 14 last year.

Affordable homes plan for Wolvercote mill site

A COALITION of community groups has put forward "feasibility plans" for affordable new homes in Oxford.

Homes for Oxford, an offshoot of several existing housing groups (Oxfordshire Community Land Trust, Oxford Community Housing, Oxford Housing Co-op and Oxford Housing Association) have developed plans for a new development at Wolvercote Paper Mill, owned by Oxford University.

All the homes would be affordable, including some very modest, and at least 50 per cent of them would be affordable, either through rent or shared-ownership.

The alliance is up against national developers bidding for the site.

Local resident Stephen Evans said: "The proposed development would mean that our desire to see our children would never be able to afford to live here would be lost, and would provide fewer opportunities for engagement with the village."

"We're confident that a residential scheme for students and others would lead to far better outcomes for the village than any other possibility."

By Samantha McGregor

The residents said Oxford house prices were 35 times the average income of the city's population, and there were 10,000 people who could not afford to live in the city in 2009.

The plan has been prepared with Oxfordshire Housing Development Trust, which developed the Oxford Housing Co-op, and Oxford Housing Association, and "around the moral and financial support" of Wolvercote residents.

Deborah Glass, director of Oxford Housing Co-op, said: "There is huge support, both from the local community and across Oxford, for an alternative to the standard housing development of three houses per acre and the risk of people being cut out of the city."

Oxford Housing Co-op was set up in 2005 to provide a range of housing, including up to 100 homes, a community centre, a day nursery, a play centre, a library and a cafe.

Homes for Oxford hope to be completed in the next round of the building process in June 7.

Tributes paid to crash victims

TRIBUTES have been paid to two young people killed in a crash on our motorway this morning.

A local citizen, from the village of Wolvercote, said: "I was shocked to hear of the crash."

The opposite driver called a week last Sunday at 11.15pm, telling of the crash on the motorway.

All four of the young people, two men and two women, are understood to have lived in the village.

Emma Whelan

Sam Kay

Northamptonshire. Three of the victims have been named.

In tribute to Sam Kay, his parents Stuart and Susan and sister Nicola said in a statement: "We will miss you so much, but we will never be in your heart."

It said: "This tragedy has left a huge hole in our lives. Sam was taken from this world way too early and will be missed dearly, but he will forever be in our hearts."

The family of Emma Whelan, 21, described her as a "beautiful girl who 'loved to travel and was very happy to meet new people'."

They said she was due to be the wedding partner for her sister's wedding in July, and in the past, she had planned to travel to Rome to volunteer in an orphanage.

The family said they did not release a statement and asked for privacy.

The family members did not have names.

School marks anniversary of pupils' death

A DEBENT school has marked the 10th anniversary of the death of a pupil.

The year-old Emma Whelan, known as Emma, was involved in a crash on the M40 motorway last Sunday at 11.15pm.

She had been 17 years old and was killed in the crash. Her parents, Stuart and Susan, said: "We will miss you so much, but we will never be in your heart."

The school said it was marking the anniversary of the death of a pupil.

Appeal for man

CRIME An appeal has been launched to find a man who may have information about an organised crime racket that broke out between two cyclists when a 19-year-old man was punched in the face.

The incident took place on Friday May 15 in Observatory Grove at around 18.45pm. The victim fell before being assaulted, dropping his tools. Police released CCTV images of a man they would like to speak to in connection with the incident on Tuesday. Call 101 for information.

Dance club out

CRIME The Police and Probation Service have failed to make it to the finals of Broom's Got Talent last Thursday evening. The Broom's Legal Talent group finished sixth in their seven heats after failing to secure enough votes from the public to progress to the grand final of ITV's talent show.

Their regional talent performance had impressed Simon Cowell and the judges, but the group of 19 youngsters did not quite make the final stage.

Plaque opening for Bicester's eco town

By Samantha McGregor

AN ENERGY centre will power the first houses at Bicester's 4,000-home eco town, but have been fired up.

Andrew Lawton, the Minister of State for Energy and Climate Change, and Secretary of State for Wales, Mr. Peter Jones, unveiled a plaque to mark the opening of the North West Bicester energy centre.

Construction work started on the 100,000 sq ft centre in April 2013 and were due to be completed in spring 2014.

All electricity will be generated on-site. The houses will be powered by the combined heat and power plant and even will be built to the level of ultra-low carbon standard as it is developed.

The plant, which will be operated by SSE, once it has been commissioned, supported and hot water to all houses through a district heating system.

It is a major milestone for the town, which is expected to be the first in the world and the first to have zero energy consumption and produce 100% of its energy.

The opening of the plaque.

in such town. Mr. Lawton said: "The CEP plant is an excellent example of a low-carbon, sustainable source of energy."

"SSE and Bicester have worked hard to design an energy solution for residents that fits with the overall sustainability of the development."

(Doreen) Morris, chief executive of SSE, said: "Bicester is a demonstration town."

we can achieve truly sustainable standards in energy and the benefits for residents, without compromising on comfort or quality."

"A district heating scheme is a pioneering technology that modern homes efficiently, and we hope that this and the other sustainable features in this scheme will inform future developments."

The CEP plant is one of several sustainable features incorporated into the scheme to improve energy saving and efficiency.

All homes will have solar panels and rain water harvesting and water recycling, triple glazing and low energy lighting.

The opening of the primary school in the site has been postponed for a year because not enough children had been registered as pupils.

Appeal hearing over proposal for retail park

AN APPEAL over plans to build a retail park on a new estate in Bicester will be held this month.

CPD Developments wants to build six shops, a restaurant, cafe and a car park on land in the Kingsmead estate.

It said businesses agreed up for the retail park included Next, Marks and Spencer, TK Maxx and independent Franks and Kennedy.

But the proposal was refused planning permission by Cherwell District Council last October on the grounds of increased traffic, car parking and noise impact on town centre residents.

Among those who objected to the scheme were Bicester Village, Sainsbury's, Bicester Town Council and Bicester Support organisations Bicester Vision.

Bicester and Kingsmead Community Association supported the scheme.

The retail park would be built near the Preswain Bus and job, off Oxford Road, as part of the Kingsmead estate which has planning permission for about 6,500 homes.

The appeal hearing will take place at Bicester District Council, Bicester on June 18, from 10am.

The public can attend.

Ban on 'legal highs' is welcomed by police

A NEW law criminalising the sale of psychoactive substances known as 'legal highs' has been welcomed by Thames Valley police force.

The Psychoactive Substances Act 2016 came into effect last Thursday making it an offence to produce, supply, offer to supply, possess with intent to supply, import or export legal highs.

Anyone breaching the law will be imprisoned for up to seven years.

Thames Valley Police Acting Detective Chief Superintendent Ray Howard, who is head of intelligence and specialist operations, said the new law is a step forward.

He said: "I am pleased that Thames Valley Police will now be able to take action to prevent the sale and distribution of these substances which can be highly addictive and have many associated risks, including negative consequences to personal mental health."

"It is important that businesses and the public are aware of the new rules."

He said the new law would

by Alex Ballinger

have a positive effect on the Thames Valley.

The recently re-elected Police and Crime Commissioner for Thames Valley, Anthony Stansfeld, said: "I am one of the law enforcement supporters and I am delighted that this law is now in place."

Police said the act was not aimed at criminalising people using the substances, but people who produced, imported and supplied them could be targeted.

Anyone found to be selling the substances from vehicles could face prosecution and the vehicles could be seized if they carried the drugs with them.

A total of 114 people from across the UK died after taking the substances last year. The ban includes Nitrous Oxide, also known as laughing gas, but other nitrites or 'poppers' are not prohibited under the legislation.

The time used to approach to taking psychoactive substances would be 'balanced, practical, proportionate and focused on individual circumstances'.

Police will be able to stop and search suspects, vehicles and vessels, enter and search premises with a warrant and search and seize psychoactive substances.

Government minister for preventing crime, Angela

Condon, Baroness Williams said: "They are not safe and we will not allow them to be sold to the public."

from the collection of the American bibliophile Robert F. T. A. who died in 1981 and included several manuscripts from John Gorton and a letter from Christopher John Lewis, Bishop of Oxford, to the Bodleian, 1644.

"Gorton was one of the most important of the 17th-century collectors of the Bodleian," Chris Fletcher said. "Gorton was one of the most important of the 17th-century collectors of the Bodleian."

Gorton's papers, including a letter from John Gorton to the Bodleian, 1644, and a letter from John Gorton to the Bodleian, 1644, are now in the Bodleian Library.

He added to the library's collection of the poetry.

The articles also include a letter from the Bodleian University Librarian and Archbishop of Canterbury William Laud written from the Tower of London in 1644 when he was held after being impeached by Parliament in 1644.

He was executed in 1644 for treason.

The other works are a book by John Aubrey about the monument, annotated by Oxford scholar Robert Boyle, and a book of prayers including various phrases like "the man the mermaid" and "the man the mermaid".

The Bodleian bought the items at an auction in London last year.

Doctor's trip of discovery

AN OXFORD doctor who left the British shores years ago to cycle around the world has spoken about how the challenge changed his life.

Dr Stephen Johnson, 55, cycled through 75 countries across Europe, Africa, South America, Central and North America, Australia and Asia to find out more about healthcare around the world.

During his adventure, he got stuck a total of 23,342 miles – a 100,000-mile journey around the globe twice.

He slept in people's homes, churches, schools, mosques and anywhere else – as well as his touring van.

Throughout his trip, Stephen, of Summertown, published medical clinics which treat a range of people including mental, religious, drug addicts, victims of violence, ex-prisoners, sex workers and travellers. These suffering from mental illness and infectious and chronic diseases.

And it was these people who had the biggest impact on his life and demonstrated to him how poor health marginalised people.

Now he is writing a book about his adventure.

Stephen, who qualified from Liverpool University in 2003 and worked at London's Guy's and St Thomas' Hospital, said: "As I started visiting projects through contacts of mine, I realised that almost all the people I met were on the edge of society as a result of infectious diseases."

"Physically and socially they were not part of the mainstream society. I wanted to know how and how that affected their health."

"So it needed health to improve in people, they were marginalised for different reasons."

"I began to get interested in finding out how marginalisation affected health and disease."

One of those is a woman called Kampana Tamang, who lived in Nepal and was housebound because she had leprosy – her only company being a wood up pole.

Her life was changed one day after hearing a radio programme that described how her disease could easily be cured.

Her brother took her to Kathmandu, a hospital supported by the UK-based charity Legacy Mission. Kampana and Helen, who also has leprosy, were freed.

He said: "I am now more interested in the world, in international health care and international development, and I want to tell the story of the people I met."

News Bites

Floral success

THAMES: A flower festival at St Mary's Church has been billed as a success after 400 entries filled the church's last night.

Among the floral displays were creations by St Thomas' Scouts UKA, Thames Youth Club and Chris Butler, resident of St Don Butler who had accompanied the Queen's birthday celebrations for design that featured roses, orchids and other flowers.

Town's big lunch

WIDEN: The annual picnic at Widen was a success as a big lunch on Sunday June 10 to celebrate the Queen's 90th birthday. Queen's and Widen's local residents, local clubs and local businesses will be taking around the town and local residents will be taking part throughout the day.

Organisers are urging residents to sign up to help for a shift during the day from 7.30am to 7.30pm, which could include setting up, serving, cleaning and washing, and other tasks to ensure the day is a success.

For more information go to widenlunch.co.uk.

City is feeling fit

OXFORD: Residents of Oxford are being encouraged to get fit and healthy through the city's fitness trails.

The figures were published by Oxford City Council last Thursday following the launch of the 2017 fitness trails.

It asked people to rate their health as very good, good, fair, bad or very bad. All Oxford's 24 wards were shown. The average rating was 2.2 per cent of people rating very good or good.

The top ward was Holywell (2.2 per cent) and the bottom was Black and Leys (0.2 per cent).

Market trader receives award

A FIFTH FIFTH Bakery market trader has been honoured for his 10 years' support of the town's market.

Richard White was presented with the Longest Standing Trader award by Chris Smith, Chairman of Oxford District Council.

Richard started working from a young age and now works alongside his son, selling fresh baking supplies.

He employs local people to support the community and also go to staff every Thursday and Saturday.

The award was presented at the Bakery edition of Last Year's Local Market Day, a national campaign offering free job-hunt and insurance to new traders who went to try their hand at being their own boss.

City Council said: "Over the years, Richard has built up a strong rapport with the townspeople and it was a real pleasure to be able to recognise his dedication and hard work with this award."

"Bakery started, not just a retail outlet, but a community where people bring us all together at the heart of the town."

"Nobody outside these walls better than Richard."

This was the fourth time that Bakery market, run by Oxford District Council in partnership with Oxford City Council, has participated in Last Year's Local Market, a national campaign promoting the retail industry of additional traders.

Help our appeal

Skye's mum in appeal for readers to help raise remaining cash

TYPE Oxfam's Guardians and our Blue Thinking for the Blue Skye Thinking are pleased and excited to launch our new campaign. The Skye's Last Appeal.

Since it was first set up in 2004, the charity has raised a precious amount of money and has funded a host of research projects into childhood brain tumours.

But despite achieving such a

By Alex Ballinger

huge amount of short-term success, the battle is not yet won and brain tumours are still the biggest cause of death of children. Blue Skye Thinking now wants to maintain the fight and reach the next milestone in helping childhood brain tumours.

Blue Skye Thinking was set up in 2004 as a legacy for five-year-old Alasdair Hugh Skye (1999), who died after just four years from the side effects of his aggressive cancer brain tumour.

Since the tragic death of their son, parents Billy and Andrew Ball have made it their mission to raise awareness about childhood cancer and its hidden dangers for research.

Together, the Oxfam's Guardians and Blue Skye Thinking are now asking for your help in our mission and the charity's objective, to help them fund a new research.

Blue Skye Thinking has already raised £200,000 to fund the work of 38-year-old researcher Graham Listerman since for their past year.

Since working at the Northern Institute for Cancer Research at Newcastle University to identify drug combinations that could be another children's suffering from the kind of brain tumour Skye had.

If you can help in any way, whether through volunteering, donating or taking part in a charity challenge in support of our Charity of the Year, please contact us at 0114 266 0000 or visit our website.

To donate, go to www.bluethinking.co.uk.

Visit www.bluethinking.co.uk to learn more about the charity and its work.

IN launching the appeal, Skye's mum Billy Ball said: "We are delighted to launch this as we have raised £100,000 towards our £100,000 target to ensure another full-time paediatric brain tumour researcher is in place, who will then have the opportunity to help research."

Blue Skye Thinking has also been frequently but devastatingly threatened by a brain tumour that is effective.

"We know there are no answers to being about a big change in the way the medical world of childhood cancer is managed."

"Currently, just over one per cent of funding goes into research for brain tumours in children."

"It is a cancer which affects children, teenagers and young adults."

which also puts pressure on the rest of the health system to have better off the rest."

"With the involvement of brain tumours on the rise, my husband Andrew and I stand united, together with our families, to support and encourage research in such a noble cause."

"We are desperate to raise the last little bit for this project by April of next year. We will be holding some exciting live fundraising events."

She urged readers to volunteer their time at events such as Bristol Music Festival where 10 people were needed to serve food, or to come up with fundraising ideas.

"History has proven that where funding dries, break throughs follow."

Graham Listerman, research scientist

'Further research is essential'

A RELAPSED brain tumour carries the most devastating prognosis - more than 10 per cent of children who relapse following current therapies will survive, according to Professor Steve Clifford, of the Northern Institute for Cancer Research. Prof Clifford said: "Our genotyping work has shown that the biology of medulloblastoma, the most common of childhood brain tumours, changes in relapse and can genetically be used to predict subsequent disease course, and to develop new targeted therapies against it."

He added: "It is now established that we target tumours more commonly at relapse and extend our initial work to understand the biological basis of brain tumour relapse, and how it can be most effectively be exploited to improve outcomes."

WIN A PAIR OF TICKETS TO EXPERIENCE

Disney presents

THE LION KING

IN LONDON'S WEST END

Set against the majesty of the Serpentine fountains and to the evocative rhythms of Africa, Disney's award-winning musical will redefine your perception of theatre.

Brilliantly reimagined by acclaimed director John Meehan, Disney's beloved film has inspired a new generation of young global citizens, and now they can experience the story through a world-class musical, stirring hearts and enchanting minds. At its heart is the powerful and moving story of Simba, the epic odyssey of his journey from wide-eyed cub to his destined role as King of the Pridelands.

This legendary production has been experienced by over 100 million people around the world and is an A1750 year on London's Great Theatre.

HOW TO ENTER:

To be in with a chance of winning a pair of tickets to Disney's THE LION KING, answer the following question:

How many people have seen the production around the world?

70 million, 80 million or 90 million

To enter this competition and more like it, go online to www.oxfordshireguardian.co.uk. For full terms & conditions go to www.oxfordshireguardian.co.uk

This week's solutions

Figure 1 consists of three 5x5 grids, each representing a population of 25 individuals. The individuals are categorized into five groups: A (red), B (green), C (blue), D (yellow), and E (purple). The grids show the distribution of these categories over time. The first grid (left) shows a stable state with 10 individuals in category A and 10 in category B. The second grid (middle) shows a transition state with 10 individuals in category A and 10 in category B. The third grid (right) shows a stable state with 10 individuals in category A and 10 in category B.

Lawson wasn't expecting that!

AFTER an successful run in South-eastern last summer, the first ever Common People Festival in Oxford was a huge triumph over the Bank Holiday weekend.

Approximately 20,000 people attended

By James Richings

more than young and old, crowded into the South Parks field to see music and comedy such as The Urban Foresters, James Lawson, Kid 3 and other acts as two buses burst in a spectacular accident.

And for 40-year-old James Lawson, whose single 'When I Expecting That' peaked at number seven in the charts last year, a performance at the city's most popular festival was a huge success.

And he admitted that "the debut" of his pop album 'When I Expecting That' was a success for him, and it is the first time I have ever seen the album

"And I don't know if people know my stuff or not so today (Friday) I will be out of the people know who James Lawson is."

James Lawson's first live performance at the festival was a success for him, and it is the first time I have ever seen the album

Despite his recent fame at the age of 40, James has been performing for the majority of his life.

After his first live performance at the age of 10, James has been performing in pubs and bars all over the country for many years.

Two other highlights in his recent career were the single 'When I Expecting That' and the album 'When I Expecting That'.

For a man who has been performing for many years, James has been performing in pubs and bars all over the country for many years.

The first live performance at the festival was a success for him, and it is the first time I have ever seen the album

During that time, it became one of the world's biggest music festivals.

And in 2004, James received a surprise message stating that he was doing a concert show in Oxford and was invited to perform from Plymouth to support him.

James has since moved to Gloucester's record label and now his self-titled album is thought to number one in the UK.

"I didn't know the band was going to come but I knew it was going to keep on going," James said.

"I knew I was going to make another record and I knew I was going to get that record in the world, but I didn't expect it to be so successful, so that's not the usual route."

He added: "It was a shock because I had only performed with this band."

"You go to the live with him, which I did, and he was looking at me but he was going to go up to his own record label, thinking that I should be the first person."

"I did the gig at Dublin was good, about 100 people in there and even though I had a lot of love for her, when we performed it seemed like nothing ever changed."

"He was the same, even though he was very generous with his time but he just had more to do."

Around 20,000 people attended Common People

Fans go wild at Common People

THREE eight of people took having a good time and dancing to their favourite music was the main theme at Common People.

For two solid days, thousands of people gathered at South Park to not only see chart-toppers like One Direction, but also for the atmosphere to see how the first Common People festival in the city would be.

Audience members from primary school children to old age pensioners gathered around the five stages - the Common Stage, the One Direction Stage, the Day One Stage, the Super Stage, the Backstage and the Dance Stage, and danced their weekend away.

By James Rathbone

And for schoolteacher David Morgan, who teaches community and business studies at Harrow School, his school children in Oxford, revealed that the two-day festival was a good way for him to "let off some steam" over the weekend.

"It is all good in the end now, it's all behind me but I was there at the time, it was a bit strange for a teacher, makes this festival a bit better."

"And I was surprised to see groups such as One Direction and the other bands perform."

"To anyone who hasn't been to Oxford before, it has never been to a festival like this, come down."

And like this, come down.

"Every time great days, good times, meeting people, get involved and have a great time."

As the day went on, many people started to gather around the main stage where saw The One Direction show why they are one of the most talked-about groups in Europe.

Today, audience participation to the extent of the live musicians of Miguel, Justin Bieber, Kanye West and the other performers of the festival about 10 miles, which took the festival to the next level, and the crowd, which led to the festival being a massive success.

The crowd went wild.

The headline act of the festival's first day was singer-songwriter Katy Perry, who has recently found new fans following the success of her latest hit "Fire" from the album "Witness".

The 25-year-old received one of the loudest cheers of the night when she performed a number of her latest hit "Fire" from the album "Witness".

As well as the music, the festival also had a lot of other things to offer, including a food and drink festival, a craft fair and a lot of other things.

A history lesson with Ray

THE history of the tale of Wight Festival will be revealed by one of its co-founders in a talk at Blackwell's bookshop in Oxford on Wednesday, June 9.

Ray Foulke arrived at the Oxford Street shop to explain how along with his brother Alan and Bill, he created the festival, which over the years of Alan Foulke and his brother's performance as to find new years.

And Ray revealed to the Guardian the unexpected reason why he along with his siblings, founded the festival at the first place.

"The first festival was promoted to raise money for a tale of Wight colour magazine fund," Ray revealed to the Guardian.

"The island didn't have one. The charity movement was around why we're going to start. It began looking at the island and we were left with the most as we were."

First, launched in 1989, the debut festival was sponsored and funded by the Oxford University, family, further friends and friends. Little Things and others.

The festival was gathered pace and in 1991, Ray and his brother's created a business group as they managed to persuade his brother to headline the year's event.

By James Redding

A year later in 1990, the Foulke brothers managed to secure the services of guitar legend, Jimi Hendrix, to headline.

However, that would ultimately be his last year because at the US before his shock death in 1992, Jimi's death later at the age of 27.

Ray said: "Every time I have memories of the death of Jimi Hendrix, or his appearance at our festival. I'm filled with sadness rather than joy or pleasure."

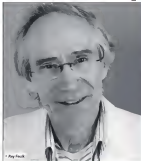

"We received the news at our tale of Wight after with great shock, 14 days after our festival."

Also in 1991, the Foulke brothers looked to find more ways of negotiation and supply of volunteers, including making a film about the island.

"After that, most of the festival bookings came from the island, except perhaps the Doors and Jimi Hendrix, which were recruited from outside agents."

"Our experience had been made. The great advantage we had in 1989 was that Oxford University. But that, because our brother's business looking at it, as we must have done something right."

Victory out of the talk, and it starts at 7pm.

Ray Foulke

Night of swing

LIVE MUSIC 2000 and swing band, Boulevard Swing, will arrive at the Cornmarket Arts Centre in Oxford on Saturday, June 7.

The Station Road venue will see guitarist, Steve Thompson, joined by Jeff Young, keyboard player, Steve Smith, guitarist, Tim Robinson, Chris Summers on bass and saxophone, and Mike Williams on vocals. Plus, there's a number of rock-solid jazz lines. It starts at 7.30pm.

New take on old tale

THEATRE Puck and his friends, The Jungle Book, will be brought to life at the Oxford Playhouse from Friday, June 6 and Saturday, June 7. Unlike the traditional tale of the well-known 1964 book, this performance will include how, how, a guitar and a double bass.

Three performances will take place over the weekend, and tickets will cost from £11 to £19.

PERSONALISED LIVE-IN CARE

Caremark offers a specialised care service for people who need support with day-to-day life but want to stay in their own home. Caremark's live-in care service enables you to remain as independent as possible, whilst being fully supported by a full time live-in Care Worker.

Care at home

You will have choice and control over your life. You can live in familiar surroundings with family, friends, your own possessions, furniture and pets too!

We will agree a personal support plan with you, detailing what kind of care and support you need, including your preferences. You'll enjoy one-to-one support from a fully trained Care Worker. You'll be able to relax, knowing that there is someone there for you seven days a week, to help with your housework, personal care and shopping or simply to provide good company.

Your satisfaction and happiness are vital to us

We will match your Care Workers to your needs. We will regularly monitor and review your satisfaction to make sure you always receive the highest standard of care.

Please call us on 01993810918

New MG3 model proves fun ride

MEG has a long history without ceasing to make new cars, and I can recall many models that transfer MEG as a brand of class and where all others: for instance, the MEG Model 2000 and the MEG GT 2000, just a few of the recent models that I can remember from my youth.

When this south-based band was an inner-city institution (MTI) phenomenon was positive and, for me, that was great news because I was happy that others knew I would start doing a new generation of MTI under some sort of identity.

The band is now preeminent and the introduction of the localized MTI in MTI mode of music change.

So in light of this, I thought it was about time that I leave the MTI impact men, which was introduced in 1983 as full workday.

Power and Efficiency:

The MK3 is powered by a 1.1 LDC: V6 1.8L engine that produces 207 bhp at 6000rpm and has a top speed of 147km/h.

Fuel consumption is about 18 mpg, and a 40-minute ride is about 10 seconds.

The engine feels very willing – and for an engine that is normally operated I think it does that rather well.

OK, it's never going to set any records, but why should it—the MCR was built to meet a need for a car that was not only well equipped but also priced without breaking the bank or subjecting an insurance company.

On the road:

The MGS feels fine – nothing to complain about really.

It's fun to drive and the chance is doing a great job of keeping you excited into the future.

The clearing is also well wooded.

but I found that road noise-rattles high on some surfaces and I think a little extra soundproofing here and there would have been welcome.

Design and Interior

The interior is not as good as some, but for a budget motor I can forgive it for its basic approach, although the seating was comfortable and the space inside is more than adequate.

The dials and switches are also set out well and the onboard climate will better than some of its budget rivals such as the Dacia Sandero.

Also, let's not forget about the wide range of personalization options you can choose from.

Technology

The MEGAFORM Sport model is fitted with a CD player with six speakers and USB input along with a host of extras including LED display, racing lights, GSM radio, multi-function trip computer, stability control system (ESC) including ABS, ESP, ESP, CMC and engine start/stop function.

Blow for Oxford as fans' player of the year rejects club for Luton

he leaves U's for Hatters

OXFORD United have suffered a massive blow to their promotion hopes in League One after striker Danny Hylton rejected a new deal at the club.

The outgoing supporter's player of the year has instead decided to leave the Kassian Stadium looking back down a division longer for Luton Town.

Hylton played a seasons role in the U's promotion success but terms ending (5 goals) in all competitions, including the second in Oxford's first loss in a century in the John Smith's Trophy final at Wembley.

But the 27-year-old, winged forward, moving to Luton after three seasons in the Kassian Stadium, said the prospect of leaving the club was "a bit of a shock".

"I was a bit of a shock," he said. "I was a bit of a shock."

Despite all the heart, it's a sad day for the people at the Kassian Stadium.

"I had such a good time here, and it's a bit of a shock to see him go."

"I could have stayed but I just didn't see enough in it. I couldn't see it."

Hylton became a real crowd favourite with his all-action displays after joining the U's from Luton in 2008. He scored before the 2010/11 campaign, and was both the top scorer and player of the year awards in his first season.

After manager Michael Appleton was quick to thank the outgoing striker for his long service, he said: "He's a real player. He's a real player."
